World Language Requirement

Demonstration of competency in reading, writing, speaking, and understanding of a single world language (in addition to English) equal to completion of the 226-level, as determined by a CCSU instructor of the language, the Chair of the Department of World Languages, Literatures, and Cultures, or a CCSU faculty member designated by the Director of International Studies. The world language should be appropriate to the student's Concentration in the major and selected in consultation with the student's advisor.

Minor Requirement

A minor is required of all International Studies majors (unless double-majoring). Students who do not already meet the above language requirement must minor in a language appropriate to their Concentration in the major. Students who meet the language requirement without doing a language minor may select a non-language minor in consultation with the faculty advisor.
